When two lowlifes rob a gas station, murder the attendant, and then incinerate bystanders who are filling up their minivan, the Manceford County, North Carolina, police quickly arrest the killers at a nearby motel.

But a stubborn judge throws out the case because the suspects were not read their rights, leaving Sheriff Bobby Lee Baggett and Lieutenant Cam Richter to face the anger of the victims' families. Soon thereafter, a mysterious e-mail arrives in the department: a link to a video of one of the murderers being executed in a homemade electric chair, ending with a voice announcing, "That's one." The shocking video spreads throughout the Internet, drawing the attention of local, state, and federal authorities and national media, and putting intense pressure on Bobby Lee and Cam to find the vigilante before he claims his second victim.

Assigned to head the search, Cam finds himself resented by some of his fellow officers and subtly threatened by others. His job is further complicated by the fact that the offending judge is also his ex-wife and now—after years apart, and an uneasy reconciliation—his sometime lover. Cam's questions lead him to a remote mountain area in western North Carolina and a group of daredevils who call themselves "the cat dancers"—so named because they have tracked the last wild mountain lions in the region to their dens, where they have photographed the animals face-to-face, or died trying. Cam must hunt this group and the cats they seek, or become their next target.

Reviews of the The Cat Dancers \(Cam Richter Series\) by P. T. Deutermann, Dick Hill

This was a captivating and very interesting mystery. The action scenes are almost continuous, and are gripping in detail and suspense. The tension is as tight as a stretched wire, and continues up to the very end. The plot is loaded with twists and turns that keep the reader from ever getting a leg up on "who done it." All of these factors make this book one where you have to ration your reading sessions, so that all of the enjoyment doesn't go by too fast. Another winner for Deutermann that should not be missed by any mystery fan.

As usual, I'm starting to say all the time, DEUTERMANN delivered another exciting and thrilling story

I'm always learning something new in his books and this one as no different. His character development is wonderful, the story hard to put down and the ending satisfying

.On to the next one!

This was my first "Cam Richter" novel, which I finished about ten days ago, and then started the next one right away (sorry, the title escapes me). Loved the story. I've read many of Deutermann's books, and he always spins an involved mystery. Keeps you thinking through the whole book. This one uses the police detective hero instead of a military hero (previous books I've read). I liked that and that the story involves the Great Smoky Mountain National Park, western North Carolina, and mountain lions. Looking forward to "Moonpool", "Nightwatchers" and more Cam Richter!

Love PT Deutermann's work. This is the first of the Cam Richter series that I have read, and I have to admit that PT has been a little slow to develop Cam's personality in this one. I am now reading Spider Mountain (book 2 of 4 of the series) and Cam is a little better developed in this one.

Excellent: clever plot, well written.

It was very hard to stop reading. Always some new twist.
